INFORMATION FROM ALBERTA HEALTH SERVICES

Symptoms for COVID-19 are similar to those for influenza or other respiratory illnesses. Anyone who has symptoms including fever, cough, shortness of breath, difficulty breathing, sore throat or runny nose MUST self-isolate for a minimum 10 days or until symptoms resolve, whichever is longer.

Most people (about 80%) recover from this disease without needing special treatment.

However, it can cause serious illness. Those who are older, and those with other medical problems are more likely to develop serious illness, which can include:

- difficulty breathing
- pneumonia

There is a risk of death in severe cases.

While we are still learning about how COVID-19 affects people, older persons and persons with pre-existing medical conditions (such as high blood pressure, heart disease, lung disease, cancer or diabetes) appear to develop serious illness more often than others.

Call Health Link 811 at the first sign of symptoms. Call from home before going to a health care facility, unless severely ill.

Anyone who is ill with influenza-like symptoms such as fever or cough is recommended to stay home for a minimum 10 days or until symptoms resolve, whichever is longer.

Who is most at risk for becoming very sick with COVID-19?

Although most people who develop COVID-19 will experience mild illness, some individuals are more likely to become seriously ill. Older adults and people with medical conditions like high blood pressure, diabetes, heart disease, and lung disease appear to be at higher risk of becoming very sick.

What are your recommendations for people who are immune compromised, have asthma or at high risk of severe illness for other medical reasons?

- Stay at home, avoiding public places and social interaction.
- If you must go out in public, practice proper physical distancing.
- For essential outings, at very least reschedule your visit for non-peak periods.
- Wash your hands often with soap and warm water.
- Avoid touching your face, nose, or mouth.
- Do not have contact with people who are sick.
- Clean and disinfect surfaces that are frequently touched.
- Call 911 if you become seriously ill and need immediate medical attention. Inform them that you may have COVID-19
